

LIBERAL LANDSLIDE COVERS THE UNIONISTS

British Party Secured Sixty-two Seats Out of Seventy-six Contests Yesterday.

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, January 15.—The Liberal landslide continues. Out of seventy-six contests to-day the Liberals and laborites secured sixty-two seats. The Liberal gains to-day show the surprising total of forty-two, while the Unionists gained only one seat, that of Hastings. Two former Cabinet officers went down before the storm of Liberal sentiment. Gerald Balfour, who was president of the local government board in the Balfour Cabinet, was defeated at Leeds by a majority of 1,069, and Walter Hume Long, former chief secretary for Ireland, lost his seat for South Bristol, while Augustine Birrell, president of the board of education, defeated the Unionist candidate at North Bristol.
Aside from the overwhelming gains by the Liberals throughout the country, the immense majorities secured in the turnover are causes of surprise to both sides.
The labor candidates are showing remarkable strength, the total gains of the labor party to-day being seven, not including one socialist, W. Thorne, who at Westham, defeated the Unionist candidate, Sir J. G. Nutting, by a majority of 5,000.
The composition of the new Parliament up to the present is as follows:
Liberals, 55; Unionists, 31; Laborites, 17; Nationalists, 13; Socialists, 1.
The total Liberal gains number sixty-four, the gains made by the Laborites being classed among the Liberals.

REACH VERDICT IN MILLER CASE

three classes are on leave during September, but Meriwether remained at Annapolis on account of the yellow fever, which was prevalent near his home.
Much sympathy is felt for Meriwether here, as all the acts of hazing are alleged to have occurred before he had the fight with Branch. Since then he has been much more studious and attentive to regulations, and was determined to do well in the service. He feels very badly about facing a court-martial again.

Voice of the People

Federal Control of Corporations.

Editor Times-Dispatch:
Reference was made in "The Outlook" of December 30th, 1905, under the heading of "Federal Control of Corporations," to the annual report of the Hon. James R. Garfield, commissioner of the Bureau of Corporations, in which "The Outlook" says the commissioner "renews" with force his recommendation made a year ago for Federal control of corporations.

This recommendation, the article goes on to say, "The Outlook" has often said that proper control is no longer possible by the single State which creates corporate existence. As Mr. Garfield says, the relation of our large shippers, generally, the greater industrial corporations, to the transportation companies, would alone be a sufficient reason for bringing them under Federal regulation.

Furthermore, "The Outlook" says: "By the exercise of the affirmative power granted under the commercial clause of the Constitution, Congress can provide a method by which reasonable combination may be permitted and yet keep under governmental control. This may be accomplished either by a license to engage in such commerce or by a charter granted by the Federal government."

In "The Outlook" of Saturday, January 13th, 1906, under the heading of "State Control of Corporations," there is published a letter from the Hon. W. P. Potter, a justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, dissenting from the conclusions of Commissioner Garfield and "The Outlook" which coming from such high authority, your readers, and I therefore give the full text of Judge Potter's letter as follows:

"For the most part I agree so thoroughly with the views of 'The Outlook' that it only emphasizes an occasional point of difference. In the last issue you repeat a statement which, in my judgment, ought not to pass without protest. You say, referring to Federal control of corporations, 'proper control is no longer possible by the single State, which creates corporate existence.' I beg leave to undertake sharply the accuracy of this statement, and I submit that it has no foundation in fact. On the contrary, the State which creates corporate existence has the power of complete control over its creature, as absolutely as has the better power over any wild animal which shape under his hands, and which takes the form that he gives to it.

A corporation can do nothing except that which by its charter is authorized to do. It is in this respect limited—like the power of the Federal Government. It can do that only which its charter gives it the right to do.

Plainly, then, the remedy for wrongful acts of corporations, lies in limiting their powers. When they are limited, and by supervising them more closely, by the same authority which called them into being.

"Does anyone doubt for a moment, the power of the State of New York to supervise and control to any desired degree, the business companies chartered by that State? Certainly. No insurance companies can be controlled by the State to just the same degree and with the same success as the power-bearing corporations. The only trouble heretofore with the State has not been attempted to discharge this duty. But her ability to do it cannot be questioned."

"Neither can the right of each State, to protect its people against the inroads of loose and unscrupulous corporations, organized in other States be questioned. Under the principle of comity between the States, a very broad and liberal practice has grown up of permitting practically free and untrammelled action to the people of various States by corporations of other States. But this principle has been carried too far, and has been abused. Here again the power of the State is ample, and needs but to be called into play. The American people are entirely capable of protecting themselves in all of the several States and in each community.

The real danger, in any attempt at control of corporations by the Federal Government, is that it would be made the excuse for preventing the people of the States from guarding their own interests. Under the plea of a Federal license, the danger of the Federal Government would claim the right to invade the whole country, without regard to the States, the rights and requirements of the States that might be invaded by the people. We are not infants. We do not require the protection of any bureau at Washington. In fact, supervision by the National Government is a farce.

No matter how good the intent might be, it would be impossible to this great vigorous country, by the aid of a bureau of clerks at the National Capitol. Such an attempt would be unwise and the right and duty of self-government in this country; and it would be a sorry day indeed, when the people of the United States acknowledge their inability to protect themselves from the evils and dangerous practices of a corporation created under the laws of their State, or that of any other State in the Union.

"Just give the people a chance. Do not let them or to their hands by any attempt to take from them the power of control, by centralizing it at Washington, and there will be no difficulty in properly protecting every right and in preventing every wrong. No greater calamity could befall us, as a nation, than the formation of the habit of looking to Washington for aid, instead of helping ourselves at home. The curse of our time is a system of bureaucracy and centralization. Let us not turn our faces toward a system that is struggling to throw off its burden. Urge, rather, the assumption of the power and reasonable control by each State over the corporation which it creates, and the exclusion of the right by each State to exclude from its borders any corporations, created by other States, as do not comply with its own reasonable requirements enacted for the protection of its own citizens. In other words, let each State require from the stranger within its gates, the observance of the same rules and regulations which it exacts upon its own people for their own good. Were this done there would be no reason for complaint.

(Signed) "W. P. POTTER."
The Southern members of Congress, ought to think carefully of the ultimate effect of such Federal legislation before giving it their support.

Yours very truly,
T. M. R. TALCOTT.

Indifference of School Children.
Editor of the Times-Dispatch:
Sir—Governor Montague struck the keynote when in his message he urged upon the people of Virginia, compulsory education.

The situation in Virginia public schools is this: A teacher is assigned a school and is given to understand that unless he or she runs that school with a specified average, the school must close, the far, so good; but how about the average? In nine cases out of ten the children go to school because they wish to. If everything goes on smoothly with them, they go. If they have to be punished for bad lessons they stay away; if a forty-second cousin happens to visit the home, they stay away; if there is a fox hunt they stay away, and so goes the story.

Now, whose fault is it that the teacher does not make an average? Certainly not the teacher's.

If education was compulsory such would not be the case, for if ever a child entered a school it would have to attend or give some good reason for not doing so. Most parents do not see the necessity of educating their children, and consequently hundreds are growing up in ignorance with a good school at their doors.

Legislation of Virginia, give us compulsory education by all means.

Barbed Wire in Capitol Square.
Editor of the Times-Dispatch:
Sir—Will you kindly inform me if there is not a law permitting the placing of barbed-wire fences. And if so, why is there barbed-wire fencing allowed in the Capitol Square, Thursday or Friday of last week, I noticed some little children playing on the walk around the fountain in the southeast corner of little children slipped, fortunately, I caught her, and her face and hands would have been horribly mutilated by the barb wire fence. As she reached to catch it, in her effort to keep from falling, I immediately went to Mr. Richardson, and he being out, reported it to his clerk. I asked that the barb-wire be moved. This morning it is still there, no protection whatever for the grass, but a menace to the little children who frequent the Square. R. W. I. Richmond, Va.

Double Taxation.

Editor of The Times-Dispatch:
Sir—Replying to your correspondent A and B in to-day's issue, and your editorial thereon, permit me to cite you another case, and ask the same question: "C" sells to "D" a tract of land for $500.00. In January, 1905, only $25.00 in cash is paid to "D," who takes four notes from "C" for $250.00 each, payable in August, 1905, 1906, 1907 and 1908. By this transaction "C" is really assured as "D" wanted the notes to meet obligations he had made. Now "C" paid taxes for 1905 on the property he bought, and "D" paid taxes on the $500.00 worth of notes he held, therefore taxes were paid on $1,000, when there is really only $500.00 worth of the property in existence, the notes being secured by trust deed given to "D" by "C" for balance of purchase money. Possibly this system may be much to do with the fine condition of our State finances. Kindly push the good work you have started.
